"Baby Boy is my gay homage to Nabokov's Lolita, with Ian Levine playing the male nymph and Rodney Steele as the much older man who defiantly indulges his lust for very young men," says Nica Noelle. "I knew that I wanted Ian in the 'Baby Boy' role, but I couldn't start production until I found my 'Mr. Humbert,' who I'd spent the better part of last year searching for. What's funny is that I cast Rodney based only on a picture that his agent had routinely forwarded to me. I knew as soon as I saw Rodney that I'd found my Humbert, but he was busy at the time so I had to wait a few months to get him. But my instincts were right, because Rodney Steele is one of the most talented performers I've ever worked with. His chemistry with Ian was extraordinary, and their sex scene together in Baby Boy is one of the most narratively perfect I've ever shot."

Noelle continues, "The entire cast did a fantastic job on this movie, and we're all so proud of the way it turned out. I hope the fans will appreciate how hard we worked on this film, and how beautiful everyone looks in their period piece outfits - not to mention the intense and sometimes almost disturbing sex scenes."
